

Each group (one group chose not to participate) was asked to select one word for each word pair that best described what they believed to be the 'idealized character' at Battle Point Park. Many times both words applied and the groups selected a blend or balance between the paired words. Some groups added additional thoughts to the word pairings.